

Max von Essen

Max is currently performing in An American in Paris as Henri Baurel at The Palace Theater on Broadway. He recently was honored with both the 2015 Tony and Drama Desk nominations for his performance.

Most recently, Max had completed a successful run in the Broadway revival of Evita, playing the role of Agustin Magaldi and covering Ricky Martin in the role of Che. Max recently appeared as Corrado Montelli in the acclaimed world premiere of Maury Yeston's Death Takes A Holiday at the Roundabout Theater Company.

Prior to those shows, Max spent over a year roller skating across the country as Sonny Malone in Xanadu. He then returned to New York and immediately delved into several new projects. The first allowed him to play The Duke of Windsor in Only A Kingdom at the York Theater, then Alexander the Great in The History of War at The New York Music Theater Festival, and more recently, The Soldier in the Transport Group's acclaimed revival of Michael John LaChiusa's Hello Again.

On Broadway, Max played Enjolras in the revival of Les Misérables, Alfred in Dance of the Vampires starring alongside Michael Crawford, Jean Prouvaire in the closing company of the original Les Misérables, and a disciple in the 2000 revival of Jesus Christ Superstar. In that production, Max understudied the role of Jesus and performed it many times. Other notable New York credits include Tremont in Jerry Springer: The Opera at Carnegie Hall, Woody in Finian's Rainbow at the Irish Repertory Theatre, and Matt in The Fantasticks at the Sullivan Street Playhouse.

Regionally, Max starred in the Paper Mill Playhouse production of The Baker's Wife and the Kennedy Center's staging of Mame. Other favorites include Danny Churchill in Girl Crazy, Anthony in Sweeney Todd, Dorian Gray in Dorian, Fredric in Pirates of Penzance, Freddy in My Fair Lady, Claude in Hair, and Joseph in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat. Max's first professional job after graduating from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was touring as a back up singer for the legendary Liza Minnelli. He has also toured Europe as Tony in West Side Story and the USA as Mary Sunshine in Chicago.

Television and film appearances include Gossip Girl, The Beautiful Life, The Today Show, The Rosie O'Donnell Show, Sex and The City 2, a recurring role on the hit web series Submissions Only, and numerous commercials. Recordings include Evita, Finian's Rainbow, Death Takes A Holiday, The Love Songs of Andrew Lloyd Weber and Broadway Musicals of 1928.
